SOCIAL CHATTER and HOME TALK

I SOMETIMES wish that Honolulu maids and matrons—yes, and even the husbands and brothers—were not so averse to see their names in print. I do not quite understand how it is if the things said are pleasing—and who could write otherwise of the society women here, for they are, without exception, charming.
It would make matters much less difficult if they were more like their sisters in other cities and towns. It is really quite a perplexing task to write of the different functions without offending some sensitive soul, and it is no use to assure them that the highest compliment is meant.
They one and all exclaim: "Oh, don't put it in the paper!" and I say, "What can a poor girl do?" and add the chorus, as well. Dear society women, pray get over such provincial ideas, for the comments are really harmless, and cannot do you the least wrong. Your American and English cousins are not like that—at least, that part of it which is "in the swim"—and you have only to read Eastern papers and English journals as well to see how intimately all the conceits of the social whirl are gone into. The social gossip here is put on with the lightest touch, and you ought to read and be thankful for your mirrors. So please be kind and help all you can by not saying nasty things when your little tears and receptions are spoken of.

A charming dinner was given on Sunday evening by Mr. John H.
Bliss and Miss Nannie Winston, in honor of Doctor and Mrs. P. H. Hum-phris, who sail in the Alameda for a six months' trip. A basket of white Easter lilies and maidenhair adorned the center of the table, and tied to the handle were electric lights swathed in green. Around the basket was a banking of maidenhair, and the place-cards were hand-painted in pink and green. German favors made great fun for the guests during the latter part of the dinner.
Afterward everybody adjourned to the private sitting-room of the hostess and chatted until a late hour.
Miss Winston was dressed in a lovely frock of cream crepe with touches of green, which was most becoming, and Mrs. Humphris looked very pretty in white and black lace over soft silk with white geraniums in her lodies. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Atkinson (nee Helen Kitchen), Mr. and Mrs. C. W.

Case Deering, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Knudsen, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hawes, Jr., Mr. Derby and Doctor Fitzgerald.

Raphael Weil of San Francisco who expects to leave in April for his annual visit to France, has announced that he will give his usual beautiful dinner in honor of Uncle Geo.
Bromley's birthday, when that venerable clubman shall be ready to celbrate on April 14th. Mr. Weil's dinner last year was the last big function given in the old Bohemian Club, and clubmen are delighted to hear that the pleasant custom started by Mr. Weil of celebrating his old friend's birthday with a dinner is not to be discontinued this year.
It will be the usual elaborate function and will take place at the new Bohemian Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Knudsen were the host and hostess of a lovely dinner on Saturday evening last at the Moana Hotel in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gay, who are so popular here. On a mound of pink satin rested a centerpiece of point lace, and La France roses lavishly seattered about made an exquisite decoration. Corsages of La France roses were at each place. Among the guests were Mrs. Schaefer, Mrs.
Knudsen, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Knudsen, Miss Ada Rhodes, Mr. Sidney Ballou, Mr. Derby, Mr. David Anderson and Doctor Judd.

The "Music Club," which met at Mrs. Whitney's on Wednesday morning, was an unusually pleasant affair and well attended. The following program was rendered:
1. Lieberlieder Brahms
Mrs. Davies and Mrs. von Holt.
2. Madrigal Chaminade
Mrs. Waterhouse.
3. Ritzmelle Chaminade
Miss Schaefer.
4. No. 1. Op. 117 Brahms
Mrs. Whitney.
5. Aria from Samson and Delilah
..... St. Saens
Miss Rhodes.
6. Hochzeitstag auf Geraldhaugen
..... Grieg

Mrs. Davies.
7. Ideale Chaminade
Mrs. Cooper.
8. a. Aria from Martha Plotow
b. Aria from Mignon A. Thomas Miss Marx.
9. Venetian Barcarolle Goddard
Mrs. Atherton.
10. a. Gipsy Song Dvorak
b. Tu me diras Chaminade Mrs. Scott.

Mrs. Charles Judd, who has been abroad for several years, is expected to arrive in Honolulu in two weeks. Mrs. Laura Wright will accompany her. Mrs. Judd is the mother of Mrs. Francis Swanzy.

Pretty Home Wedding

On Wednesday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Damon in Nuuanu avenue occurred the wedding of Miss Susanne Cook, daughter of Mrs. John P. Cook, of Marinette, Wisconsin, and Mr. William Dennett Adams, formerly of Boston, Massachusetts. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Scudder at half past eight and the young couple stood beneath a bower of palms and greens on the spacious lawn. The charming bride was beautifully dressed in white silk net over white liberty satin, the yoke and girdle being of priceless lace. Her bridal veil was very becoming and she carried a shower bouquet of rosebuds and white violets. The bridesmaid, Miss Mills of Boston, looked well in pink pina over pink satin, the yoke and bertha being of Irish lace. Her bou-quet was of pink geraniums and maid-enhair ferns. Mrs. John P. Cook gave the bride into the keeping of the groom and the Wedding March was beautifully played by Carlos Caceret at the organ. Miss Violet Damon, violin, and Miss Hopper, piano. Mr. Adams was supported by Mr. Coleman Schwartz as best man.
After the ceremony there was a reception and the music was rendered by Mr. Knudsen's brilliant orchestra.
Mr. and Mrs. Adams sailed in the Mongolia for a ten months' tour of Japan, and they will be accompanied by Mrs. Cook. On their return they will reside in Honolulu, where the groom is well and favorably known.
A farewell banquet was tendered Mr.
Adams on Monday night at "The Ark" in the Ellis Club. In the center of the table reposed a large bou-quet of red carnations and these were surrounded by a music box of cut glass. The place-cards were mil-lature musical instruments, and during the progress of the dinner music was heard from concealed musical boxes. The perfect menu was the work of the chef at the Grill. Mr.

Harry Easton was the moving spirit of the banquet and had charge of all the details. It was in every respect a successful affair and Mr. Adams responded many times to the toasts which were "showered" upon him.
The guests were Messrs. F. L. Gotch, Coleman Schwartz, H. H. Simpson, Harry C. Easton, F. B. Angus, James B. Dougherty, L. A. Walker and C.
F. Waterman.

Miss Mary Adele Case's second concert proved an unqualified success.
It was held at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. McGrew on Tuesday evening and the singer was ably supported by Mrs.
Charles Cooper with the violin and Mrs. William Whitney at the piano.
"The Rosary" was rendered with telling effect, its rendering being enhanced by the friendship of Evelyn's widow with the singer. Mrs. Cooper played in a finished manner and was in perfect accord with the singer. Mrs.
Whitney always accompanies with masterly ease and elegance. Miss Case had over two hundred in her audience, which brought out the exclusively musical set as well as many others.
She sailed in the Sonoma with Miss Mason, en route for Paris, where she will continue her studies.

Mrs. William G. Irwin, Miss Helene Irwin and Miss Julia Langhorne expect to leave today for the southern part of the State. They will visit Coronado and go to Santa Barbara for the polo games next week.—Chronicle.

Miss Wilson's Wedding

The Irwins and their guest expect to visit Honolulu in April. A great friend of Helene Irwin has just been married and as she is also very well known in the society set, I insert a full account below of the wedding: As high noon was striking yesterday Miss Charlotte Wilson, younger daughter of Mrs. Russell Wilson, became the bride of George Cadwalader at one of the most brilliant and beautiful weddings which San Francisco society has ever been privileged to see. Seidman has the sun shone on a fairer bride than Miss Wilson, her slender, graceful, girlish beauty set off and enhanced by her superb wedding costume. The decorations of the statelstone residence were most elaborate and beautiful, and the most notable members of San Francisco's exclusive set were present in all of their Easter finery and handsomest jewels. About 300 invitations were issued for the ceremony and the wedding breakfast that followed, and few regrets were tendered, so the spacious mansion was filled with guests long before the hour named. There was plenty to see and admire, however, for the house was a perfect bower of beauty, the decoraters having taken every advantage of the springtime season to mass fruit abundantly, daffodils and azaleas in every available niche and cranny. The drawing-room, where the ceremony took place, presented a beautiful scene.

Toward the end of the long room where the bride couple was to stand, two tall gold columns were placed, and on top of each was a great basket of delicate-stemmed fruit blossoms. Back of these on the wall two flat pieces of gold made an effective background for the improvised altar of white satin, upon which tall candles in brass scenones burned. Huge golden baskets of fruit blossoms were suspended from the ceiling and masses of bloom on monsters and over doorways gave the finishing touch of beauty to the room.

In the square entrance hall wreaths and garlands of yellow daffodils were effectively hung, and in the dining-room a very artistic effect was obtained with garlands of greens on the walls and at intervals wreaths of red and pink roses against dark-hued leaves. The bride's table was exquisite with masses of pink heather and quantities of Hannah Hobart carnations.

An orchestra stationed in the hall announced the coming of the wedding party with the familiar strains of the Lohengrin march. First came the ushers, Willard Brown, Percy King, Oscar Cooper and Knox Maddox, bearing the two lines of white satin ribbons, which formed the aisle down which the bridal procession marched. Then followed the bridesmaids, Miss Linda Cadwalader, Miss Lucie King, Miss Jennie Crocker and Miss Mary Keeney; then the maid of honor, Miss Emily Wilson, and lastly, the bride, on the arm of her uncle, Mountford Wilson, who gave her away. The two little sons of Mr. and Mrs. Mountford Wilson, Russell and Mountford, Jr., were attractive pages following behind the bride and gathering up the satiny ribbons. At the altar Mr. Cadwalader and his best man, Bert Cadwalader, were waiting, and Bishop William Ford Nichols, assisted by Rev. Dr.
Frederick Clappett, performed the marriage ceremony.

Miss Wilson was a beautiful bride, Her wedding gown was fashioned in the empire mode of softest white satin and trimmed with some superb old lace, a gift from her grandmother, the late Mrs. Samuel Wilson. The customary tulle veil fell to the tip of her train and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.
The bridesmaids' dresses were especially attractive, being made, also, in the empire style of pink chiffon over pink silk. The transparent yokes were of white lace, with a brotelle effect coming down over the corsage. Three hands of pink messaline satin trimmed the skirts, and tiny silk ruffles were a pretty finish. Fascinating hats of white Neapolitan straw completed these lovely costumes. The hats were trimmed with wreaths of tiny pink roses, pink plumes and white tulle.
The bridesmaids carried huge bouquets of pink carnations, pink heather and tulle, tied with great pink satin bows.
Miss Emily Wilson's gown was made as were the bridesmaids', but of white chiffon, with an applique pattern of pink roses at the hem and white plumes on her fetching white hat.
Mrs. Russell Wilson was very handsome in a gown of black lace, made over white silk and trimmed with white lace. Another beautiful costume was worn by Mrs. Francis J. Carolan, who was gowned in dark green cloth, trimmed with white lace. Mrs. Samuel Knight wore a most becoming gown of pale blue and white silk. Mrs. Rudolph Spreckels' gown of white lace was beautiful, and a ruby velvet cloak was most effective. She wore some superb pearls. Mrs. Ira Pierce and Mrs.
Walker were both very handsome in heavy white lace.

After the wedding breakfast was served, the guests being seated at small tables. At the bride's table were the bride and groom, and Miss Cadwalader, Miss Emily Wilson, Miss Mary Keeney, Miss Jennie Crocker, Miss Lucie King, Miss Helen Ches-brough, Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Scott, Miss Katherine Martin, Jack Kittle, Allan Kittle, Bert Cadwalader, Percy King, Willard Brown and Oscar Cooper.

Miss Mary Keeney was the fortunate discoverer of the ring in the bride's cake, and to Miss Martin fell the thimble.

After congratulations the young couple drove off in a gayly decorated automobile, which the merry young people had fairly hidden beneath great bunches of pink tulle, bunches of heather and carnations and the customary old shoes. The bride's going-away gown was a lovely costume of pale blue brocade, with short bolero jacket and pleated skirt. Her hat was of the same shade as the gown.

others.

Miss Margaret Marx and her daughter, Miss Drusilla Marx, are going to Europe in May. They have been here for many months and are much liked.
Miss Marx has given great pleasure by her beautiful dramatic voice.

Mr. McBryde, who is a guest at the Moana Hotel with his mother, has the following notice in the San Francisco Chronicle:

Douglas MacBryde writes from Honolulu of the perfectly delightful visit he is enjoying there. Mr. MacBryde left for the islands just before Christmas, but expects to return in the last of this month. He will remain here until summer, when he intends going
